Subject: CIA's new Classification Review Panel
I've just learned from a friend on CIA's History Staff that CIA's new management has set up and is actively encouraging an internal Classification Review Panel whose goal is to respond to the new Executive Order, getting out large quantities of 25-year-old or older records in the next five years. My contact seemed dubious about what this panel will run into in DO, but he reports that panel members themselves seem to expect that they will get masses of CIA records released.
