Subject:	review process
Body:	Two things:1)The problem Mary was having. It seems the future review date on the "rif" screen is in the wrong place. The analyst should be able to change it. Also there was that weird thing where the date was being entered about twenty times or more. We can look at one of these together. 2)As I have said before, we need more flexibility in the review process screen. If a mistake is made by the analyst, the analyst should be able to fix it without redoing it altogether. A "one step back" button would be excellent. Again we can look at this together when you are here.
