Subject: Printing

I am unable to print this morning. I have turned my computer off three times and that did not fix it. This is the same thing that happened to my system last Thursday. Last week Chet checked all the settings and everything was okay, we turned my computer off multiple times and the last time we turned it back on it printed. For now, I am just going to continue to turn my computer off and on every now and then to see if that works. Any other ideas on how to get me up and running would be appreciated.
