Body: Val, I explained to Chet what happened to the formatting of the input document when you used it from Christina's desk. He would like to recreate what happened, so maybe you can talk to him about it next time you're both in. Chet, you asked to be reminded to pull up the last correct version of the document off the back-up tapes to restore the proper format. The last time it was used was October 30. However, it was on the system in the correct format until it was reaccessed on November 15. I thought that the document was on the g: drive \wpdocs subdirectory and named "input.frm" but when I just went into that document the text wasn't there. Maybe Val moved it after the problems she had to another document. Val, any clue? Thanks.
