Subject: My trip to Martin, TN

I've been instructed to head for the beautiful campus of the University of Tennessee at Martin to peruse the the Holland McComb papers. On the assumption that I am to work with you on the physical logistics (correct me if I'm wrong!), here's the scoop:I will have to fly into either Memphis or Nashville (Memphis appears to be a little closer as the crow flies, but my contact at UT-Martin says I ought to go through Nashville if possible), rent a car and drive the 2 to 2 1/2 hrs. to Martin. My intention would be to leave here Monday evening/late afternoon, 7/22, drive to Martin that night, stay in a luxurious hotel (my wife, having checked a AAA book, thinks there may be a Ramada; my UT-Martin contact referenced an Econo-Lodge directly across from the Library, as well as something called University House or something similar -- any of these will be fine), and show up at the Paul Meek Library at 8:00 AM sharp on 7/23. While there's an outside chance I could finish in one day (ie, Tuesday, 7/23), I should probably plan on two nights in the Econo-Lodge (22nd and 23rd) with a flight back at the end of Wednesday, the 24th. If it all possible, the return flight should be kept flexible in the event things take longer or shorter than we anticipate. What else do you need from me on this, or should I be doing something altogether different than telling you about it?
