Subject: Weekly report

In preparation for the public meeting, CIA team has already spent two days at HRG, going through those sections of the microfilm collection that CIA has deemed "nonrelevant." We plan to spend another day there tomorrow, and more time next week. We are also reviewing records in preparation for the upcoming Board meeting and note that, increasingly, the issues we encounter are "green" issues. Michelle's last day is Friday, and team is taking her to lunch today. There will be an office lunch for her on Friday. Understandably, she has been spending much of her time getting ready to leave--cleaning up projects for Jeremy and cleaning out files, etc. Michelle's departure will leave CIA team sadly depleted, especially on the heels of Chris's departure to full-time work on military team and Noelle's departure from ARRB, which impacts heavily on Bob. Manuel will be the only full-time reviewer left on CIA team until new personnel arrive, and of course, it will take some time to bring the new ones up to speed even after they get here. As for arrival dates, I have heard nothing recently on when we can expect them. Bob has almost completed his part of getting ready to transfer the May meeting documents to NARA and has finished up his part of the Federal Register notice for the July meeting.
