NR_key_name:	04B7C85DCA3F9B1A852563B7004A2ACB
SendTo:	CN=Jeremy Gunn/O=ARRB @ ARRB
СоруТо:	CN=Douglas Horne/O=ARRB @ ARRB;CN=David Marwell/O=ARRB @ ARRB
DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo:	CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From:	CN=Tim Wray/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate:	10/02/1996
DisplayDate_Time:	9:34:32 AM
ComposedDate:	10/02/1996
ComposedDate_Time:	9:30:06 AM
Subject:	Air Force Records on LHO Training
	I discussed our interest in this topic yesterday with Jessica Spencer, the AF POC who succeeded Frank
	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might
	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.)
	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some
	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most
	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the
Body:	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the school at Keesler AFB. Anyway, they're apprised of our interest and will see what they can locate.
Body: recstat:	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the
-	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the school at Keesler AFB. Anyway, they're apprised of our interest and will see what they can locate.
recstat:	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the school at Keesler AFB. Anyway, they're apprised of our interest and will see what they can locate. Record recstat: DeliveryPriority: DeliveryReport: ReturnReceipt:	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the school at Keesler AFB. Anyway, they're apprised of our interest and will see what they can locate. Record N
recstat: DeliveryPriority: DeliveryReport:	McGovern as our liaison person. She said she would try to determine, as a first step, where such records might now be located if they even exist. (She was not at all confident that such records would still be in existence.) One possible source we discussed was MPRC in St. Louis while we were there last time, I had some reasonable success delving through some unit records for 112th INTC Group, etc. However, MPRC is most likely to have unit morning reports for normal-type units as opposed to training records for something like the school at Keesler AFB. Anyway, they're apprised of our interest and will see what they can locate. Record N