So that we are all on the same page (and in keeping roughly with what I understand to have been Dave's practice), before Sydney or Jim goes to FINCEN, they should clear it with me, in advance, as to what they think needs to be done. They also should send a short e-mail on what names they will be searching and the amount of time they anticipate being out of the office. Before going to FINCEN, Sydney and Jim also must clear it with their team leaders (Laura and Doug respectively). Please let me know if any of this is unclear or if anyone has additional suggestions.
