I will aim to go and may have to leave the possibility open that there will be enough chaos to deter me.We have just completed the last details on the conference schedule and have decided on the people we would like to participate in a last panel, "A Debate on the 1998-2000 Agenda." Could you be one of the people to speak and address the international protection of religious minorities? David Little will speak from the political scientist/religion point of view, Krassimir Kanev will speak on monitoring from the point of view of a nonlawyer, Eastern European NGO leader, Jolanta Ambrosewicz-Jacobs will address the tolerance and educational angle. You're the lawyer in this group. It will be a summarizing and looking to the future kind of discussion.Let me know if this is OK!Best,Lili
