Subject: Re: HSCA consultants

This is a great help and good information. I'll be over to look at your files sometime soon, maybe later today or Friday (I'll be in PA talking to Robert Groden tomorrow - if you have any thoughts or suggestions about that interview please share them with me.) thank you again for your ongoing assistance. I will be interested to know if you turn up anything on Barber (accoustics) at a later time.

I believe it is comprehensive. This document is the "best" one (most information in one easily accessible place) of the consultant-related documents I came across out at Archives II today. Among other things, it conveniently breaks them down by category of expertise. I've added, by hand, additional relevant information for each consultant from other documents I looked at. I copied the one page contract for each consultant (not attached, but in my file) as well as, where available, the first page of any resumes I came across. In addition to the information I've transferred on to this base document, therefore, is also some educational/professional information about most of the consultants which will be in my files (which you may confiscate at any time!). Where DOB and SS # information is included, it came from these resumes.
