

NR_key_name: 2C18B9516E497FB68525638E0050D2B9
SendTo: sculpepper @ nih.gov (Susan Culpepper) @ Internet @ WORLDCOM
CopyTo: DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo: CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From: CN=Kevin Tiernan/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate: 08/22/1996
DisplayDate_Time: 10:50:11 AM
ComposedDate: 08/22/1996
ComposedDate_Time: 10:42:48 AM
Subject: Re: what up, buttercup?

DDD's don't work so well with only a pure walk. You know the same thing happens every time, usually the same route, same bodily functions, same bad behavior when some critter crosses our path, blah, blah. But its funny you should ask about that on this morning. I took the pups over to the fenced area on 13th (not yet a designated dog park and we had the place to ourselves) and let them run around. I was quit conscious of an older man staring at us as he walked to the metro. I hope I did not blow it for the whole crew. The dogs had a blast. That space is pretty big, and both of them got up really good heads of steam running across it. Dinah sometimes runs in that really tight weaving pattern, with her head up, ears flying and he backside curled under. Hero on the other hand fixes his eyes on something (usually Dinah's fore legs) and goes at it intently, choosing the perfect line to bring her down no matter how slow or fast she is moving. He must make imperceptible adjustments along the way because he never misses. Sleepy and wavy,KT

Body:
recstat: Record
DeliveryPriority: N
DeliveryReport: B
ReturnReceipt: Categories: