

NR_key_name: DF2CB90156CB0CC38525643C004F4833
SendTo: CN=Joseph Freeman/O=ARRB @ ARRB
CopyTo:
DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo: CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From: CN=Laura Denk/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate: 02/12/1997
DisplayDate_Time: 9:51:39 AM
ComposedDate: 02/12/1997
ComposedDate_Time: 9:25:58 AM
Subject: Re: Prospective Intern

You're such a good soul -- agreeing to drive to Tucson on a whim!! I didn't know that you had another (possible?) interview to do there. I hope it works out. By the way, the woman we are considering hiring for this internship was the Smith College 1996 NCAA Woman of the Year and Senior Athlete of the Year for basketball. Pretty cool, huh? You are going to do great in your race -- winning PRs left and right and doing the best training you've done in years. Good luck!!! What hour of the day does the race start? Is it a hilly course? How are your temperatures there? How many miles are on your current pair of running shoes? (all important factors, I think.) And, most importantly, what is your time goal & strategy? My training is okay & I actually have consistently been doing my Sunday long runs, but I keep taking two days a week off instead of one and running ~ 5 miles on weeknights instead of 6 or 8 -- which is the difference (for me) between a 35 mile week and a 40+ mile week. But I'm feeling esp. good this week (knock on wood). I ran 14 on Sunday, 8 on Monday, and 6 on Tuesday. Of course, it is supposed to start snowing, sleeting, and then raining tomorrow night, so we'll see how I do on Thursday and Friday. . . (snow I can handle -- sleet & rain I could do without.) I'm still not ready (mentally) for racing yet, so I think I will definitely skip the Williamsburg 1/2 marathon. You'll have to do well enough in your race for both of us! Poor little cats. First, they get lost in the substructure of the house, then they lose their outdoor privileges for fear of coyotes eating them, and now you are going to introduce a D-O-G into the house. eeeek! On the other hand -- they do get to hang out with you full-time now, so they are probably ecstatic. happy cats :-)) How is your reading going with time off? I wish Marion Zimmer Bradley would write another big long mythic legend so that I could read it. I've been reading all of the Provence books by Peter Mayle, but I am just about finished with the last one & am eager for new escapist novels. Any ideas? Maybe I can borrow some books when I come with Kevin, Bob, & Doug to visit :-)) Hope all is well. Thanks for the e-mail!
To: Laura Denk/ARRB
Cc: From: Joseph Freeman/ARRB
Date: 02/11/97 05:12:56 PM
Subject: Re: Prospective Intern
 Good job, Wren!! (And Laura: sounds like you're back in full training stride!) Relative to the summer intern, I'd be happy to chat with her if you and Jeremy think it a good idea. As for Tucson, I don't mind driving down in the least. As far as that goes, one of my other potential interviewees (should it ever go ahead) is located in Tucson, also -- perhaps I could cover both on one trip (but two trips would be fine, too). Enough of work-related subjects! Did I tell you that a few weeks ago, early one morning, I saw four coyotes lope across our back yard?? (Maybe I did tell you...) Heightened our resolve to not let our cats out (which we had been considering). Ran 12 miles yesterday, as psychological preparation for my half-marathon on Sunday. I have yet to run today and am struggling to fight off an overwhelming urge to Record
Body:
recstat: N
DeliveryPriority: N
DeliveryReport: B
ReturnReceipt:
Categories: