

NR_key_name: 257EC1C82A9915FA8525644F007C08E7
SendTo: CN=Laura Denk/O=ARRB @ ARRB
CopyTo:
DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo: CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From: CN=Joseph Freeman/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate: 03/03/1997
DisplayDate_Time: 5:45:33 PM
ComposedDate: 03/03/1997
ComposedDate_Time: 5:34:47 PM
Subject: Re: Sorry I missed you today.

I would have been pleased to generate even a smile, so I'm quite happy to have fomented an out-and-out laugh! Brian and I will be on the 9:00 AM shuttle to College Park (so in the office a little before that) and back (most likely) on the 4:00 PM run, so back in the office around 4:45 PM. Wednesday is unclear -- I'll definitely be at College Park most of the day, but perhaps not all. If I had known I was going to see so little of you, I would never have agreed to work these 5 days!! Life is inscrutably unfair! (Though lunch last Wednesday was very nice!) Did you run the 10-miler on Sunday? I thought of you that morning, hoping you'd decided to sleep in! Pennsylvania was nice, as always, though 48 hours with my two youngest nephews feels like a week. Where do kids and babies get all that energy? As it turns out, there is some stuff going on back home (PA) and it was good that I was there. To: Joseph Freeman/ARRBcc: From: Laura Denk/ARRB Date: 03/03/97 04:33:37 PMSubject: Sorry I missed you today. Your e-mail made me laugh SOOOO hard this morning, but I was very sad to discover that you were already gone. How was Pennsylvania? Are you going to be in the office at all during normal business hours the next two days? I'm off. See you, I hope, tomorrow.

Body:
recstat: Record
DeliveryPriority: N
DeliveryReport: B
ReturnReceipt:
Categories: