If they can't address it on the spot, they will coordinate with the appropriate authorities. We should also pay attention to the folder number and if there are problems within a particular folder or with similar types of documents take them over as a group. In some cases the entire folder may be flawed in which case they will send it back to be re-done. We should probably try to get as many "green" cases out the door as possible, then concentrate on the problem issues.
