Okay, okay. I have been deluged with e-mail telling m that July 10 is a bad day for one reason or another. The most valid of these is that Laura will be leaving for a month as of Friday and would like the chance to do a happy hour before she leaves with some of the departing people. So, in deference to that request, and also to the fact that Bob will be leaving us for Korea and won't be in the US on 7/10, I am rescheduling the HH for TOMORROW NIGHT, Thursday the 26th, immediately after work. We all know $ is tight for a lot of us here at the end of a pay period, but perhaps we could order pitchers of various liquids (coke? other assorted beverages of choice?) to help distribute costs. Anyway, let's do something tomorrow night, if y'all have nothing planned.
