Subject: Re: JFK Library

I spoke with Stephanie Fawcett today and will meet with her at the Library on Tuesday, July 22nd at 9:00 a.m. to discuss the various categories of records. Tracy will get her my clearance so I'll be able to look at anything that is still classified. I was told that Megan was the person to talk to about the Lincoln papers. She is out until Monday, but I left a voice mail message and spoke to one of her colleagues. He said that I should be able to see the Lincoln collection, although it is not available to the public yet. I was also told that I can request the White House logs and appointment slips through the research desk when I get to the Library. In my message for Megan, I asked her to call me if she foresaw any problems with what I wanted to see on Tuesday. Finally, I spoke with Allan Goodrich regarding my interest their audio-visual inventory (I had sent him a letter requesting a copy of the inventory). It was a typical conversation with Goodrich. The result is that I will look through their inventory (he says it is 800 pages long) during my visit on Tuesday. I will let you know how I make out after my visit. I'm waiting to hear from her. Assuming Tuesday works out for her, I can check the usher logs and appointment slips at that time, if they have them.
