Subject: Re: travel - train info

Jeremy for travel to Moscow from Warsaw, taking Lufthansa would require travel from MOscow to Munich to Frankfurt and then into Warsaw, totalling close to $2000.00 and changing planes three times! However, (I know you said not to check these airlines, but) Lot or Aeroflot is about $500 roundtrip direct from Warsaw to Moscow with restricted ticket advanced purchase. If non restricted ticket , it is $860 roundtrip. Re: the hotel, Mary is calling Interconti directly to reserve your room for the night of 7 September for $99 and will fax us the confirmation. Pls let me know if you get the fax instead of me. Thanks, Cathy

 Thanks for the info. Please book the Intercontinental at $99. Please ask whether there are any real airlines (i.e. not LOT or Aeroflot) that fly to Moscow from Warsaw and learn their prices.

 This just in from Mary at sato: the train from Warsaw to Moscow takes 23 hours EACH WAY! Further, we can get no information on prices because train tickets across the border from another country into Russia cannot be issued in the United States, therefore no info on prices is available, according to Mary. (however travel within Russia could be purchased in the U.S., but not travel involving border crossing) You would have to purchase the ticket in Warsaw if you wished to still take the train. Let me know if you want me to try another travel agency to double check. ALSO REGARDING YOUR HOTEL IN WARSAW for the night of 7 September three options: Sheraton (in the heart of warsaw) has a govt. rate of $150.00 The Intercontintinental (about 1 mile from the Sheraton) is $99 govt. rate The Marriott has no govt rate available for that evening and is $235.00 non govt. rate Let me know which hotel to go with. We also need to make reservations for both the HOtel and the travel because rates can change as time passses. Also, the govt rates at the hotels may not be available either, the longer we wait. Price info on t e flights is as follows: $1476.95 Roundtrip with no restrictions (non govt rate) for travel on Delta nonstop from JFK to WArshaw, including travel from Dulles to JFK. The govt rate for the same flight is $1214 HOWEVER, if purcased now it is $739 for the same flight and it is refundable, but needs to be purchased now. f
