Subject: Re: USSS records

If the Kennedy Library provided appointment slips to the Church Committee, shouldn't there be some copies in the Church Committee records? Can that be checked? If they exist in the Committee files, along with documentation of where they came from (the JFKL), then we have something to show to the Library to document that they had them at one time (i.e., the mid 70's).

Subject: USSS records
I found 21 documents at NARA today that might shed some light on the appointment slip issue. One set of documents describes Record Group 87 (Secret Service) and accessions from the Secret Service. These records document NARA's accession and transfer of appointment slips to the Johnson Library and the Kennedy Library. The NARA printed description clearly distinguishes between gate logs and appointment slips. These documents suggest that the Kennedy Library has appointment slips. The second set of records are from NARA administrative files. These documents describe records provided to the HSCA and the Church Committee by the Johnson Library and the Kennedy Library. Again, the Kennedy Library provided appointment slips--and pages from the President's appointment diary. This last was from the Kennedy Library, and it was apparently kept in an appointment office supervised by Ken O'Donnell. I did not find any evidence that the Secret Service transferred all the EPS forms (from 1-34) to NARA. If these forms still exist, I suspect that the Secret Service has them. I found only one mention of EPS "work projects" (?) in the Johnson Library. Perhaps we could ask Tina Houston to send us a sample. I note that the Johnson Library has oral histories of Chief Rowley and Rufus Youngblood. If these have not already been designated "assassination records" and placed in the JFK Collection, they should be there. I have placed these documents in Jeremy's box.
