Subject: Re: RFK DOJ Criminal Division Microfilm Review

Laura: Thank you for your prompt response. However, I must assure you I did not confuse you with Joan as "the woman on the microfilm-review team." My notes from my conversation with Phil reflect that the project was "handed off to Laura/Kevin." He was confused, I guess. Actually, the woman on the microfilm-review team was Joan. I never reviewed any of the microfilm, nor was I ever assigned to review any of the microfilm. The only question below that I have any insight into is the "point person" question. I know that Ron is now the person responsible for DOJ records. He may be the best one to be in charge of the project now, though I don't know how much, if any, of the microfilm he has ever reviewed. I recently spoke with Phil Golrick regarding the review of RFK DOJ Criminal Division microfilm that we received from the JFK Library. As you know, the microfilm is in the SCIF. I came into this late and I am trying to get up to speed. Phil mentioned that his recollection was that each of you had played some role in reviewing the microfilm. Any information that you can provide me with would be appreciated. Answers or any information relevant to the following questions would be helpful:
1. Was the review completed? Any idea what percentage of the tapes were done?
2. How much of the review did you do?
3. Do you have any notes on the review?
4. Did you ever have any direct contact with anyone at the Library?
5. Was there a "point person" after Phil left the office?
6. When was the last time anyone did anything with the microfilm in the SCIF?
Anything you can add is appreciated. Thanks.
