I was told thatthis does not normally happen as there are several thousand workers,and all work was basically stopped for about 15 minutes as themanagers read a memo to all employees. The memo was a direct "order"from the US Treasury Dept. Basically, all employees had to searchtheir work areas and sign a document stating that they had no files atall pertaining to the assasination of JFK. My friend will attempt toget a photocopy of the memo so I can scan it in and make it availableto anyone who is interested.I have no idea (other than my own wacked theories) on what this means,but it is a neat little tidbit. Enjoy.
