NR_key_name: 20E56F41666AFF9A8525663D00017227
SendTo: CN=Laura Denk/O=ARRB
CopyTo:
DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo:
From: CN=Joseph Freeman/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate: 07/09/1998
DisplayDate_Time: 8:37:16 PM
ComposedDate: 07/09/1998
ComposedDate_Time: 8:15:48 PM
Subject: Re: Apologies
Body: 1) you're the greatest (I may have emailed that to someone else this week, but I mean it doubly this time...!)2) I had used the Section 9 cite originally, since it's used in the FY 96 Report which I do have a copy of, but I asked Ron just in case there was a seperate citation for the final, as opposed to annual reports; he gave me a cit. referencing section 7, so I will definitely check it when my copy of the statute arrives.3) Ron also gave me the directions, re: section signal, although he left out the "num lock" part. All the same, all I get are ding-ding sounds when I try it... I'll let Jeremy fix it when he gets ahold of the darn draft (if he ever does, the way things are going... Finn is determined to make me miss my deadline, and she's a heck of alot bigger than she used to be, speaking of horses...)4) Chris sent me the citation for the '78 Presidential Records Act; thanks for the FindLaw tip!5) Thanks for the horse exchange between you and Colleen. I laughed (more than once). You should definitely resent it, as should we all. At 5'6 and 1__ lbs. (didn't think I'd really fill in the blanks, did you?), I'd have to be in some "Fattest Shetland Ponies Ever" category!! Plus, the whole thing has put the Byrds' "Chestnut Mare" in my head and I can't get it out (not conducive to report writing), even though it has lyrics which we would now regard (and should have then, except that you, for instance, may not have been born at the time...) as hopelessly sexist (and just odd, to boot): "I'm going to catch that horse if I can/And when I do I'll give her my brand/And we'll be friends for life/She'll be just like a wife/I'm going to catch the horse if I can." Pretty song, though.
recstat: Record
DeliveryPriority: N
DeliveryReport: B
ReturnReceipt:
Categories: