

NR_key_name: 31489408E39D601E8525663D00579DAA
SendTo: "Jonathan R. Tuttle" <jrtuttle @ debevoise.com> @ INTERNET @ INTERLIANT
CopyTo:
DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo: CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From: CN=Laura Denk/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate: 07/10/1998
DisplayDate_Time: 12:17:00 PM
ComposedDate: 07/10/1998
ComposedDate_Time: 11:57:00 AM
Subject: Hi there.

What to do, what to do? I have a slight preference to stay overnight in an inn rather than a traditional B&B. I always feel guilty if we sleep too late, laugh too loud, stay out too late, etc. . . Better to be anonymous in some cozy inn, don't you think? Beyond that preference, I would love to go to either the mountains or the water. Let's just pick the best combo. of accommodations and food (and cute shops, if you think they might be an appropriate consideration.) Let me know what you think. Georgeann called and said that everything is going along swimmingly. (Pardon the pun.) She said that we have great soil and that the sod should thrive. We are to feel the grass each day and, if it feels cool and moist, we should not water it. She said that overwatering will kill it faster than anything during the first two weeks. When it feels dry (she thought it would feel dry on Sunday), we should purchase an overhead oscillating sprinkler, and turn it on for 30 minutes. The sod should "seed" in 5-7 days. Hurray! She also told me that they may be one or two sod strips short of what they will need to cover our yard. If that happens, she will make arrangements with us to return one day next week to add the addl. sod. (She hopes that it won't happen.) I am quite anxious to see what they've done! And I am thrilled about the fish. I hope they'll be happy with us. What should we name them? Since they have arrived in our lives on our anniversary week, I think their names should relate to our marriage. So, I propose we name two of them Marge and William, in honor of the writers who shaped our wedding ceremony. Any ideas for the other two? xoxoL.

Body:
recstat: Record
DeliveryPriority: N
DeliveryReport: B
ReturnReceipt:
Categories: