NR_key_name:	B11176E290E1CEC48525665D0053B7A4
SendTo:	CN=Joseph Freeman/O=ARRB @ ARRB
CopyTo:
DisplayBlindCopyTo:
BlindCopyTo:	CN=R ecord/O=ARRB
From:	CN=Kevin Tiernan/O=ARRB
DisplayFromDomain:
DisplayDate:	08/11/1998
DisplayDate_Time:	11:23:02 AM
ComposedDate:	08/11/1998
ComposedDate_Time:	11:14:25 AM
Subject:	Re: Favor to ask, re: T-drives and final reports

Body:

When I went to look at your chapters in the t drive, there were two versions (which I think is as many as have been sent) and the most recent one had been doubled spaced. So apparently, someone, other than myself is looking out for you. Clearly it is my narrow interpretation of your first e-mail, rather than some failure on your part, that led to this confusion.Are you all readying for Ireland. What a time you are sure to have. Have you been following the hub bub about the Modern Library's top 100. I think it is Styron, in this week's New Yorker, who wishes they had deliberated over a long afternoon wine-soaked lunch rather than from a list sent in the mail compile the list. I guess I/we were naive to think that the list had something other than commerce as its basic goal. Yesterday's Post has yet another funny Jonathan Yardley column about the failings of the list and of a companion vox populi list on the Modern Library website. Ayn Rand (Fountainhead and Atlas Shrugged) and William Shatner (Tek War) both make the top 100.To:Kevin Tiernan/ARRBcc:From:Joseph Freeman/ARRBDate:08/11/98 09:51:05 AMSubject: Re: Favor to ask, re: T-drives and final reportsI didn't articulate myself clearly. When I said I "just" e-mailed it to Jeremy, I didn't mean "just" in the sense of "a recent point in time". I meant "just" in the sense of "simply" or "only". That is to say, at the time that I originally sent Jeremy the draft (before he left, on 7/16 and 7/21), when he was still Executive Director and the proper recipient of the draft, I e-mailed him the draft w/out reference to the T-drive. I don't know if he then put it in the T-drive himself (where I don't think I can now access it) or not. So the question is: should I make the spacing changes in my version here and e-mail it to Laura/you, or if it's in the T-drive already, would it be better for you to make the changes from there (the 7/21 email version to Jeremy is the corrected one, by the way).Again, sorry that my grammar generated confusion. Aside from a three-line email wishing him all the best on the day of his party, I haven't communicated w/Jeremy in any way since Bob's wedding (let alone would I have sent him a chapter draft after he left the agency), and I guess it never occurred to me that you would read my use of the term "just" in the way you apparently did. To:Joseph Freeman/ARRBcc:From:Kevin Tiernan/ARRBDate:08/11/98 08:29:24 AMSubject: Re: Favor to ask, re: T-drives and final reportsI am happy to do whatever you need me to, but of course you remember that Jeremy doesn't work here anymore. If you would send it again to either Laura or myself, we will take care of you. To:Kevincc: From:Joseph Freeman/ARRB Date:08/10/98 05:25:35 PMSubject:Favor to ask, re: T-drives and final reportsI don't think I can access the T-drive from here (please correct if I'm wrong); I just e-mailed the draft of Chapter 1 into Jeremy. Would you do the double-spacing thing for me (if in fact Jeremy or someone put the draft into the T-drive at all)? Alternatively, I could double-space it here in my word-

recstat:	Record
DeliveryPriority:	N
DeliveryReport:	B
ReturnReceipt:
Categories:	