These are lovely, and I do not already have them. You'll see them again!Thank you.To: Laura Denk/ARRBcc: Bob Skwirot/ARRB Date: 09/11/98 06:19:37 PMSubject: QuotesThese quotes are not for Chapter 4. One might be good for chapter 5. My guess is that you probably have them, but if you do not, they could be useful."The bill creates a strong presumption on releasing documents. The onus will be on those who would withhold documents to prove to the review board and the American people why those documents must be shielded from public scrutiny." Senator John Glenn Chairman, Committee on governmental Affairs. (Senate Hearing 102-721, 102 Congress, 2nd Session. p. 1 (1992)."I think today a great gulf exists between people and their elected officials. Doubts about this particular matter are a symptom of that, and so I think the purpose of this hearing is to ask some questions. Why does information need to be withheld? At this moment in time, what compelling interests are there for the holding back of information? Are there legitimate needs in this respect? Who and what is being protected? Which individuals, which agencies, which institution are in the need of protection, and what national security interests still remain? Senator William S. Cohen. (Senate Hearing 102-721, 102 Congress, 2nd Session. p. 12 (1992).
