

Lee Harvey Oswaldapalooza

Saturday, June 8

Marwell Pavillion at University Park

scheduled to appear:

Mannie and the Blowfish ("Only wanna be with you")

The Dave Marwell Band ("What would yousay?") Green Wray

("Welcome to Paradise") Gunns and Rhodeses

("Sweet Child O' Mine"); Country Joe Freeman and the Fish

the Jesus and Mary McAuliffe Chain

The Dead Kennedys

Dr. Joan

Dylan ("Positively 6th St.")

Phil Collins, Esq. ("Sue-sue-sudio")

Tom

Samoluk of the Talking Heads

Gray Zombie ("More Human than Human")

Jerrie

Garcia and Bob Weird ("Touch of Grey") Katrina and the JMWAVE's ("Walkin' on Sunshine Act") A Flock of Seguins ("I Ran [So Far Away]")

many others on the second stage

Yes, boys and girls, ladies and gentlemen, it's time for the summer picnic that we've been talking about since the fall picnic. We have selected a date (Saturday June 8), a place (David Marwell's house), and a time (2:00 till whenever). All we need now is you. David has graciously agreed to provide the main dish (to be grilled, including allowances for the vegetarians among us) and the refreshing beverages; it is up to us to provide salads, side dishes and desserts. There is a sign up sheet in my office; please sign up for what you will be bringing.

Significant others, insignificant others, friends, distant relatives, former employees of the ARRB (except Gene), and former interns from last summer are all invited; David's hospitality is boundless. Chet and David have offered to give rides from the College Park metro stop to the party house, so fear not.

To quote the jeans commercial, "No Excuses". You should be there. I mused on this subject a couple of weeks back, so you all should have at least known it was coming. The more of us that show, the more fun it will be. Please come. Activities will include volleyball, frisbee (or should I say, "Discs"); there is a possibility that the nearby ball diamonds may be available as well. This party is dog-friendly, but there are leash laws, so be forewarned.

RSVP to Christopher NO LATER than Thursday, June 6. Thank you.