

MEMORANDUM

April 10, 2017

TO: Distribution List

FROM: Doug Horne, Assassination Records Review Board

SUBJECT: Formal Notification of Next Joint Declassification Session for Review of Army, NSC and LBJ Library Records

The purpose of this memo is to reconfirm the dates of the next joint declassification session at the Assassination Records Review Board offices. As we agreed, the next joint review session will be 10-12 December, inclusive, in the ARRB conference room at our offices at 600 E Street, N.W. in downtown Washington.

Records reviewed at this session will include one additional box of Califano Papers (approximately 2000 additional pages on the formulation and execution of U. S. Policy on Cuba), approximately 300 records from the LBJ Library, approximately 233 NSC records, approximately 20 OSD records, approximately 10 Eisenhower Library records, and possibly about 100 records from the John F. Kennedy Library. Agencies on the distribution list for this memo are perceived to have equities in the materials scheduled for review.

The Review Board has less than one year of active life left, and it is imperative that we stay on schedule, and if possible, accelerate our review of documents with potential military, NSC and State Department equities. Agencies that are interested in reviewing and protecting their equities in these documents should continue to attend our joint review sessions, as they have in the past. For agencies that do not continue to attend our sessions, the Review Board will infer that those agencies are not interested in protecting any equities in the documents slated for review, and will act accordingly by assuming there is no objection to release of their equities in full.

The documents scheduled for review in December will go before the Review Board for consideration at the Board Meeting scheduled for January 22, 1998. Agencies that attend the joint review session in December and identify desired postponements, will have the opportunity to present detailed evidence in support of those postponements at the January Board Meeting.

Should recipients have any questions, please call me at (202) 724-0088.
