On Friday, October 22, 1994 I spoke to Brian Dettelbach of the Committee on Governmental Affairs, and on October 25, I spoke to Don Goldberg of the Committee on Government Operations about the formal requirement to submit an annual report on October 26th. Both Brian and Don felt that a my proposal to submit a summary of our activities to date and a plan for the coming year would be reasonable. I indicated that although the report would be dated October 26th, it would likely not arrive for another week or two. They had no problem with that.
