Subject: Review of Treasury Records at NARA

On May 23, Joan Zimmerman and I went to NARA in College Park to inspect certain closed records of the Department of Treasury that had been identified by Phil Golrick as potentially relevant. See July 21, 1995 Memorandum from Phil Golrick to Sue Perella. We have inspected these records and have found no materials relevant to the assassination. Set forth is a brief overview of the records inspected.

A. Accession No. 56-75-101 (Boxes 48, 50, 53, 55)

These included 1960's records of the Office of Assistant Secretary of Treasury for International Affairs, including subject files. For a more detailed description of the materials in boxes 48 and 55, see J. Zimmerman memorandum dated May 27, 1997. Per the Golrick memorandum, it was recommended that we also inspect boxes 52 and 54, but we were advised by NARA that those were destroyed.

B. Accession No. 56-69A-3005 (Boxes 1 to 6)

These consisted of 1950's and 1960's records of the Interdepartmental Committee on Internal Security.

C. Accession 56-68A-3837 (Boxes 1 to 3)

These contained official reports to the National security Council from the 1950's. The most recent report was dated 1961.

D. Accession 56-66A-187 (Boxes 1 to 6)

Subject files from the 1950's (and some 1960-61 files) relating to National Security Council policies. It appears that at least some of these files came from the Office of International Finance.

E. Open Treasury Records at NARA (Accession No. 56-74-1--Box 9)

We did not inspect Accession No. 56-74-1 (Box 9), which I believe contains 1962-64 files of G. D'Andelot Belin, Treasury's General Counsel and liaison to the Warren Commission. I treated these as a lesser priority since NARA advises that these records are open to the public; we may nonetheless want to inspect these (the person to contact at NARA regarding this open accession is Wayne Deceasar (phonetic) at 301-713-7250).
